

COMMUNICATOR CRAFT

Let creativity abound and stay in communication with your friends and favorite stuffed animals with this DIY Paw Patrol inspired Wrist/Collar Communicator craft! This craft is great for repurposing toilet paper and paper towel rolls into a fun DIY toy.

SUPPLIES:

DIY Paw Patrol Wrist/Collar Communicator printable, scissors, glue, Crayons, colored pencils, markers, etc. and toilet paper or paper towel tubes

DIRECTIONS:

Print out the DIY Paw Patrol Wrist Communicator Printable, and color it. Have fun with it! After your done coloring cut them out.

Take the cut-out wrist/collar communicators and trace out the form on the toilet paper or paper towel tubes, and cut a slit for the wrist. 1 toilet paper tube produces 4 wrist communicators or 2 collar communicators. 1 paper towel tube produces 10 wrist communicators or 6 collar communicators. (Collar communicators cut at an angle wrapped around the tube.)

The final step is to glue your wrist/collar communicators on to your cut-out toilet paper or paper towel tube pieces. Once dry the tubes will keep their curved shape and should stay on your wrist. (If you are having issues keeping the communicators on your wrist you can tape the two ends together.) That's it! Your done!
